The Minnesota Wind Chill are coming off their most successful season in franchise history after their first ever Championship Weekend appearance last season. While their season ended with an overtime loss to Salt Lake in the semifinals, the Wind Chill have plenty of momentum heading into 2024, and they carry one of the strongest home field advantages in the league. Returning a strong core of players on both offense and defense, plus adding veterans Matt Rehder and Greg Cousins, the Wind Chill are well-positioned to defend their Central Division title.
